

As a person that is a customer of an independent service provider (ISP) I value the service and options they provide. If DSL service is limited to only the phone companies, my quality of service will go down and the price will go up for the services I receive.

It is important to me that independent ISP's have the ability to provide service over DSL line to consumers.